

Authors

Alessandra Romano is assistant professor in Methods for inclusion and Special Education at University of Siena. She took her Ph.D. Degree in Education at University of Naples Federico II in cotutorship with Teachers College, Columbia University. Her interests of research are the study of (a) active and transformative methodologies for promoting professional community development, (b) diversity management strategies in organizations, (c) post-qualitative research methods. Her unique research approach incorporates experiential methods, such as art-based and performative methodologies.

Francesca Bracci is assistant professor in Teaching and Learning Methods at the European University of Rome. She earned her Ph.D. in Adult Learning and Leadership from Catholic University of Milan and Teachers College, Columbia University. Her research focuses on collaborative research methodologies and action-based approaches to the study of learning and change in organizations, communities, and adults. She is interested in the ways in which individuals work together to seek solutions to similar problems, to promote inclusion, to construct knowledge, and to support innovation. Another area of research includes the practice of fostering transformative learning in a variety of settings, such as school, professional training and development, gender education.

Loretta Fabbri is full professor in Teaching and Learning Methods at University of Siena. She is Head of the Department of Education, Human Sciences and Intercultural Communication, (University of Siena) and she is delegate of the Rector for the soft-skills programs within the Teaching & Learning Center. Her research is focused on theory and methods of transformative learning, communities of practice, and post-qualitative research. She is co-founder of Italian Transformative Learning Network; and works with private and public institutions for continuing education programs.

Teresa Grange is full professor in Methodologies of the Educational Research at the University of Valle d'Aosta (Italy), where she has covered the academic positions of Dean of the Faculty of Education and Director of the School of Specialization for Secondary School Teachers' Training. She is currently Rector

Educational Reflective Practices (ISSN 2240-7758, ISSNe 2279-9605), 1/2018

DOI: 10.3280/ERP2018-001014

Copyright © FrancoAngeli

N.B: Copia ad uso personale. È vietata la riproduzione (totale o parziale) dell'opera con qualsiasi mezzo effettuata e la sua messa a disposizione di terzi, sia in forma gratuita sia a pagamento.

Delegate for International Relations and Holder of the “Chaire Senghor de la Francophonie”. Her numerous national and international publications mainly focus on the quality of education and methodology of pedagogical research.

Loredana Perla is full professor in Methodologies of teaching and special education, at the University of Bari Aldo Moro. She is Rectors’s delegate for the Teachers Training in Bari, ISATT (International Study Association on Teachers and Teaching) and Ideki (Information, Didactique, Documentation, Enseignement, Knowledge Kultur, Ingénierie) National Representative, peer reviewer for AERA (American Educational Research Association), vice president of SIRD (Italian Society of Educational Research) and member of SIPED (Italian Society of Pedagogy). She has published national and international works about the professional teacher training (L'eccellenza in cattedra. Dal saper insegnare alla conoscenza dell'insegnamento, FrancoAngeli, 2011), the school curriculum (I Nuovi Licei alla prova delle competenze. Guida alla progettazione nel biennio, Pensa MultiMedia, 2014), the educational practices (L'Agire educativo. Manuale per educatori e operatori socio-assistenziali, La Scuola, 2016 – eds. with M.G. Riva) and the teaching mediation (Teaching and historical landscape. Delineating epistemological background, Italian Journal of Educational Research, with A. Brusa and V. Vinci, n. 20, 2018).

Laura Sara Agrati is a fellow researcher at the University of Bari Aldo Moro. She has published national and international works about the professional teacher training (2018, Il pensiero sistemico del middle-manager scolastico. Spunti per la professionalizzazione, in ‘Form@re - Open Journal per la formazione in rete’), the teaching mediation (2018, The mediation of Philosophy subject matter, in ‘Teaching search and research: conceptualizations of the school practices’, Sense Publishers), the inclusive education (2018, Per una didattica inclusiva attraverso il movimento. Premesse teoriche, spunti operativi, Pensa Editore).

She is a peer reviewer for the AERA (American Educational Research Association), member of ISATT (International Study Association on Teachers and Teaching), SIPED (Italian Society of Pedagogy) and SIRD (Italian Society of Educational Research).

Paolo Federighi has been developing experiences in the field of adult education (being also members and president of important international organisations, i.e. EAEA-European Association for the Education of Adults, www.eaea.org/it/), lifelong learning strategies and policies. In particular he conducted and he is still conducting, also with the task of scientific coordination, European and national comparative researches on improvement of university learning design, lifelong learning policies, professionalization in adult learning, definition of innovative learning models for adults in any learning context they are included (prison, businesses, social society, social economy organisations, etc.), training methods, models and approaches in adult learning, existing measures for the promotion of employability of young and adult users in the social economy, particular disadvantage situations, for low-skilled and low-qualified citizens in all productive sectors, definition of strategies and policies in lifelong learning, organization design models to value education and training. He has been cooperating for the EC in several research activities and published works. One of the most relevant ones is the “Adult and Continuing Education in Europe. Using Public Policy to Secure a Growth in Skills” (2013). He is the author of several books and published works in such fields of researches and involved in institutional debates on a trans-national, national, local level in the education, training, employment issues. Moreover working with regional institutions gave him the concrete and pragmatic approach needed to understand how to implement policies and strategies and put them into practice.

Concetta Tino, Ph.D. currently is research fellow at Department of Philosophy, Sociology, Pedagogy and Applied Psychology at the University of Padua. Her research and study interests concern work related learning and in particular the school-work alternation (SWA) paradigm, the development and assessment of soft skills, teacher-tutors’ training as boundary spanners, peer-assessment, women leadership. She has been visiting scholar at University of Georgia (USA).

Daniela Frison, Ph.D., currently Adjunct Professor of Methodology of Training and Teaching and Intervention Methods in Organizations at the University of Padova. She has been visiting scholar at the Julius Maximilians University of Wurzburg, Germany. Her research interests include: work-related learning and university-business cooperation, teaching and learning methods in Higher and adult education, and professional development.

Monica Fedeli, Ph.D. currently Associate Professor in Teaching and Learning Methods and Organizational Development at University of Padova. She has been Adjunct Professor at Boston University, at Michigan State University, at Julius Maximilians University of Wurzburg, Germany, and Visiting Professor at California University Berkeley, School of Education. Her research interests include: active teaching, participatory teaching and learning, faculty development, university business dialogue, women leadership, and professional development. She published more than 70 articles, books, and book chapters in variety of national and international journals, and book series.

Ada Manfreda, Post Doc in “Media education, participatory planning and community” at the University of Foggia. PhD in ‘Science of Mind and of human relations’ at the University of Salento (Lecce). She is president of the spinoff and innovative startup “Espéro”, which mainly deals with the projects, modeling and research-action about community empowerment and social innovation. She carries out, since many years, research-intervention in Salento territories, aimed at mapping, emergence and enhancement of intangible cultural resources of local communities, with narrative methodologies, and through the performing arts.

Gianni Nuti, is a researcher and Assistant Professor in Didactics and special education at the University of Valle d'Aosta. He deals with the teaching of expressive activities, music, transdisciplinarity and lifelong learning in social professions. He is the author of numerous articles in collective volumes. Among his many monographs we mention Musica Pratica – scuole di ieri e di domani, Le Briciole di Pollicino, fotografia e insegnamento tra scuola ed extrascuola e Didattica del pensiero creativo pubblicati da Franco Angeli e In un nido di suoni 1.0 and 2.0 for Polistampa Università, Firenze.

Paolo Nitti works as Adjunct Professor in the Department of Human Sciences at Università degli Studi di Verona and in other Italian universities. He specialized in Applied Linguistics, Italian Linguistics and Second Language Acquisition at Università degli Studi di Roma Tor Vergata and Università degli Studi dell'Insubria. He has written 2 books and more than 100 essays on Linguistics and Language education, collaborating with Italian and international academic journals. His research interests focus on the acquisition and the study of writing systems, Italian grammar, language and sexism, and acquisition of Italian as a second language.

Valentina Guerrini earned her PhD at University of Florence, Department of Education and Psychology, she is temporary Professor at the same Department. Her research interests are oriented to the management of differences (ethnic, cultural, gender) and equal opportunities in education and in the world of work and to teachers' training from an international perspective. She has several publications in the pedagogical journals of the sector.

Federico Zamengo is a Researcher in Theory of Education (University of Turin, Italy). He is currently interested in Philosophy for Communities and Community Building. His main research interests involve the relations between formal, non-formal and informal education both in youth and in adulthood.

Nicolò Valenzano graduated in Philosophy and History of Ideas and is currently a PhD student at the University of Turin (Italy). He is currently interested in Philosophy for Communities – as an adult education proposal in informal and non-formal contexts – and Paulo Freire's thoughts.

Ezio Del Gottardo is Professor of “Didactics, special pedagogy and educational research” at the University of International Studies of Rome. He is Director of the Higher Education School of the same University. He deals with issues related to researching and training programs of social inclusion, design and formative evaluation, Adult Education, teaching methodologies, guidance (choice guidance, monitoring, Observatory on demand, Career Counseling), pedagogy community. He has participated in numerous international and national conferences on his research topics.

Salvatore Patera, sociologist and Ph.D in Education. Currently, he is post-doc research fellow at INVALSI on evaluation of competences in an international perspective. He was adjunct professor in degree and post-degree courses for M-PED/03 e M-PED/04 at University of Salento. He was Visiting Professor at University of Zaragoza (Spain), Universidad Politécnica Salesiana (Ecuador), Universidad PUCRS in Porto Alegre (Brazil). He is President of “Innovars – Association of spinoffs and startups”. 2017-“Abilitazione Scientifica Nazionale” professore universitario di seconda fascia, settore concorsuale: 11/D2 “Didattica, pedagogia speciale e ricerca educativa” (prima tornata 2017). He has participated in numerous international and national conferences on his research topics.

Irene Biemmi is Professor of Gender Pedagogy in the Department of Educational Science and Psychology, University of Florence. Her areas of research interest concern gender issues in the education sector with particular reference to the critical analysis of teaching materials, teacher training, and orientation.

Carlo Terzaroli is doctoral student and junior researcher at the University of Florence, Department of Education and Psychology. His research interests include adult education, Higher Education and pedagogy of work with a specific focus on the development of students’ employability and entrepreneurship through Career Service.