

Authors - Notizie sugli autori

Ozan Nadir Alakavuklar is an associate professor of Organization Studies at Utrecht University School of Governance. His research interests include postcapitalist organization theory, alternative forms of organising, academic activism, and social change. He is actively involved in creating synergy between theory, pedagogy, and practice of social change through the Master's programme 'Organising Social Impact' and transdisciplinary network 'Anders Utrecht', which brings grassroots organisations and academia together. He serves as a member of the ephemera editorial collective and sits on the editorial boards of Organization and Academy of Management Learning and Education. E-mail: o.n.alakavuklar@uu.nl

Laura Azzolina is associate professor of Economic Sociology at the University of Palermo, Department of Political Sciences and International Relations. Her research interests are currently focused on university transformation, territorial inequalities and institutions, and governance of urban development. Currently, she is associate investigator in two Prin projects on new urban economies and the peripheralization of territories. She recently concluded the Prin project Gendering Academia (GEA) as associate investigator, publishing on university governance, gender and academic careers. E-mail: laura.azzolina@unipa.it

Carmela Barbera is research fellow at the Department of Management, University of Bergamo, Italy. Her recent research activity spans from the roles of accounting systems in shaping inter-governmental relationships, to public sector financial resilience and citizen-government interaction for public service planning, provision and evaluation. She is member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the International Journal of Public Sector Management and member of the Scientific Committee of the 2024 EAA

DOI 10.3280/SO2023-002015

Studi organizzativi n. 2 2023, Issn 0391-8769, Issn-e 1972-4969

Annual Congress for the Accounting Education/Public Sector Accounting & Not-For-Profit Accounting category. She teaches courses in Business administration, Financial accounting, Business strategy, Public sector governance. E-mail: carmela.barbera@unibg.it

Andrea Biagiotti is associate professor of Economic Sociology at the Department of Cognitive Science, University of Messina, where he teaches "Economic Sociology and Territorial Development" and "Work and Organization in Creative Activities". He works on processes of change and interaction in tertiary organizational contexts (universities and social services), territorial development and innovation policies. E-mail: andrea.biagiotti@unime.it

Paolo Borghi is currently assistant professor at the Department of Economics 'Marco Biagi' of Modena and Reggio Emilia University. He worked as postdoctoral researcher at the Work and Employment Relations Division of the Leeds University Business School and as postdoctoral researcher at the Department of Social and Political Sciences of the University of Milan. His research topics concern work organisation, platform work, collective representation, and welfare systems from an interdisciplinary perspective through qualitative and mixed methods. E-mail: paolo.borghi@unimore.it

Federico Butera is professor emeritus of Organization Sciences and architect of complex organizations. From 1988 to 2013 full professor at the University of Milano Bicocca and at the Sapienza University of Rome. Founder and president of Irso-Istitute for Action Research on Organization and Systems since 1974. He has been editor in chief of the journal Studi Organizzativi since 1998. He authored over 250 articles and 37 books in Italy and abroad. His latest books are Organizzazione e società. Innovare le organizzazioni dell'Italia che vogliamo, printed by Marsilio, and Coesione e innovazione. Il patto per il lavoro dell'Emilia-Romagna (with Patrizio Bianchi, Giorgio De Michelis, Paolo Perulli, Francesco Seghezzi, Gianluca Scarano), printed by Il Mulino. E-mail: federico.butera@irso.it

Luca Carollo is currently assistant professor at the Department of Management of the University of Bergamo (Italy), where he teaches Organization Theory and Change Management. He received his PhD in Economic Sociology and Labor Studies from the University of Milan in 2016. His primary research interests include organizational culture, organizational change, human resource management, employment relations, control and resistance dynamics in the workplace. E-mail: luca.carollo@unibg.it

Vincenzo Cavaliere is a full professor of Organization Studies at the Department of Economics and Management, University of Florence, Italy. His research mainly concerns organisational change, organisational behaviour, and competency models in HRM. He's coordinating research programmes on Voice, Skill Mismatch and Leadership in public organisations. E-mail: vincenzo.cavaliere@unifi.it

Democratizing Work Italia is the Italian chapter of the international Democratizing Work movement, born from the manifesto written in May 2020 by the three academics Isabelle Ferreras, Dominique Méda and Julie Battilana. The movement aims at developing a global conversation around the joint needs of democratizing and decommodifying the the world of work and promoting climate justice. The Italian chapter aims to bring the actions and reflections proposed by the manifesto into the Italian context. E-mail: democratizingwork2021it@gmail.com

Virginia Doellgast is the Anne Evans Estabrook Professor of Employment Relations and Dispute Resolution in the ILR School at Cornell University. Her research focuses on the comparative political economy of labor markets and labor unions, inequality, precarity, and democracy at work. She is author of Exit, Voice, and Solidarity (Oxford University Press, 2022) and Disintegrating Democracy at Work (Cornell University Press, 2012); and co-editor of International and Comparative Employment Relations (Sage, 2021) and Reconstructing Solidarity (Oxford University Press, 2018). E-mail: Vld7@cornell.edu

Lisa Dorigatti is associate professor at the Department of Social and Political Science of the University of Milan (Italy), where she teaches Comparative Employment Relations. Her area of research is the comparative political economy of labour regulation. She researched extensively on trade unions and the representation of precarious work; the relationship between labour regulation, outsourcing and working conditions; labour market institutions and inequalities. E-mail: lisa.dorigatti@unimi.it

Francesca Gabbriellini is Ph.D. candidate in Contemporary History at the University of Bologna, currently working on the Italian Cooperative Movement in the 1980s and its relationships with the ecological movements and the national environmental policy-making process. She is co-founder of the former GKN Solidarity Research Group and coordinator of the GKN Technical-Scientific Committee for the ecological re-industrialisation “from below” of the Florentine site. E-mail: frances.gabbriellini3@unibo.it

Carmela Guarascio is research fellow of Economic Sociology at the University of Macerata, Department of Political Sciences, Communication and International Relations. Her research interests are currently focused on innovative production systems, gender inequality, solidarity economy and local development, with a focus on territorial inequalities. He has carried out a visiting period at the Federal University of Bahia, at Cnam in Paris, and Apes in Lille. E-mail: carmala.guarascio@unimc.it

Roberto Lusardi is associate professor of Sociology at the Department of Management at the University of Bergamo, Italy. His main research interests concern the relation between knowledge, work and innovation in organizations, especially in the fields of medicine and healthcare. Some of his research topics qualitative methods, particularly ethnographic studies and action research, medical practice, interprofessional collaboration and organisational sensemaking. He is member of scientific board of the Italian Society of Sociology of Health (SISS). He has published both conceptual and empirical books and articles in journals such as Current Sociology, Forum: Qualitative Social Research, Rassegna Italiana di Sociologia, Salute e Società, Studi di Sociologia, and Acta Biomedica, among others. E-mail: roberto.lusardi@unibg.it

Francesco S. Massimo is a PhD candidate in economic sociology at Sciences Po Paris, Centre de Sociologie des Organisations, and teaching assistant in political science at Sciences Po Aix (France). He is currently finishing his PhD dissertation on the politics of work organisation in Amazon's logistics network. He worked as an expert for different studies promoted by the European Commission on automation and digitalisation in the logistics sector (2021-2023), and on telework (2020). E-mail: francescosabato.massimo@sciencespo.fr.

Barbara Maussier è docente di Sociologia dei processi culturali e comunicativi presso l'Università di Roma Tor Vergata e consulente di comunicazione e organizzazione per istituzioni pubbliche e aziende private. I suoi interessi di ricerca riguardano l'organizzazione di eventi e il turismo. Su tali temi ha pubblicato Andria misericors. Pellegrini di due Giubilei (a cura di) (Franco Angeli 2019), Il futuro degli eventi. Scenari creativi nella società del tempo libero (Hoepli 2018), Festival Management e destinazione turistica. I festival come nuovi media della società postindustriale (Hoepli 2010) e numerosi contributi su riviste scientifiche nazionali e internazionali. E-mail: bmaussi@hotmail.com

Guglielmo Meardi is professor of Economic Sociology at Scuola Normale Superiore, Florence. He was previously Professor of Industrial Relations at the University of Warwick, UK. His research activity is in the broad field of comparative and transnational industrial relations. E-mail: guglielmo.meardi@sns.it

Martina Mori is a postdoctoral researcher at the Department of Economics and Management, University of Florence, Italy. Her research interests centre on organisational behaviour, focusing on employee voice, innovative work behaviour, and leadership influences. She is a member of national and international associations such as ASSIOA and EURAM. E-mail: martina.mori@unifi.it

Angelo Moro is research fellow in Economic and Labour Sociology at the Institute of Economics of the Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies in Pisa and Ph.D. candidate in Sociology at the University of Burgundy. His research interests focus on the sociology of industrial work and trade-unionism, the consequences of technological innovations on work and occupations, industrial relations and the ecological transition in the automotive industry. He was part of the former GKN Solidarity Research Group. E-mail: angelo.moro@santannapisa.it

Annalisa Murgia is associate professor in Sociology at the University of Milan, where she is also the Scientific Coordinator of the Research Centre GENDERS and PI of the ERC project SHARE – 'Seizing the Hybrid Areas of work by Representing Self-Employment'. Her main research interests lie in sociological qualitative and ethnographic studies with a focus on precariousness and its implications for workers' agency, emerging forms of collective organising, and the social construction of gender in organisations.

E-mail: annalisa.murgia@unimi.it

Simon Parker is assistant professor in Organizational Behaviour and Human Resource Management at Nottingham University Business School and fellow of the International Centre of Corporate Social Responsibility. Simon received his PhD from Warwick Business School and is currently researching alienation and rule-creation in worker co-operatives, parasitic actors, wrong-doing, temporality and train drivers. E-mail: simon.parker@nottingham.ac.uk

Simone Pulcher is a postdoctoral researcher at the Department of Sociology and Social Research at the University of Milan-Bicocca, and a Lecturer in Business Administration at the University of Milan. He received his PhD in Economic Sociology and Labor Studies from the University of Milan. His research interests revolve around diversity in organization, with a special focus on national and sexual identities. E-mail: simone.pulcher@unimib.it

Thomas Steger is full professor of Leadership and Organization at the University of Regensburg. He graduated from the University of Fribourg (Switzerland) and received his doctoral degree as well as his habilitation from the Chemnitz University of Technology. His research interests focus on corporate governance (especially boards of directors) and employee-ownership. Particular emphasis is placed on the transforming countries of Central and Eastern Europe. E-mail: thomas.steger@ur.de

Arianna Tassinari is assistant professor in Economic and Labour Sociology at the Department of Political and Social Sciences of the University of Bologna, Italy. Her research interests focus on the comparative political economy of work and on the transformations of labour relations, labour markets and economic governance in advanced capitalism. She completed her PhD in Industrial Relations at the University of Warwick in 2019 and held research positions at the European University Institute and at the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies before joining the University of Bologna in 2022. E-mail: arianna.tassinari4@unibo.it

Stefano Tomelleri is professor of Sociology at the Department of Management at the University of Bergamo (Italy), where is Deputy Rector of Participatory Planning. He is the President of the Italian Sociological Association (AIS) for the 2023-2025 triennium. He is member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the scientific journal Studi di Sociologia and Director of the AIS journal Sociologia Italiana (AIS Journal of Sociology). In addition to over one hundred publications, he is author the book Ressentiment. Reflections on Mimetic Desire and Society (Michigan State University Press 2015). E-mail: stefano.tomelleri@unibg.it

Patrizia Zanoni is a full professor of organization studies at the School of Social Sciences of Hasselt University. Drawing on critical traditions of thought, such as (feminist) Marxism, labour process theory and critical discourse analysis, her research investigates the role of differences in capitalist economies and societies. She also investigates attempts to organize livelihoods in alternative ways, against and beyond capitalism. Currently, Patrizia coordinates the consortium Humans in Digital Logistics (ERA-NET CHANSE, 2022–2025) and is the PI for Hasselt University in INSPIRE, the Centre of Excellence on Intersectional Gender Equality Plans (HorizonEurope, 2022–2026). She is currently co-Editor-in-Chief of Organization. In 2022 she received an Emma Goldman Award for her work on inequality. E-mail: patrizia.zanoni@uhasselt.be

FrancoAngeli/Riviste

---

tutte le modalità
per sceglierci in digitale

Più di 80 riviste consultabili
in formato digitale su pc e tablet:

1. in abbonamento annuale (come ebook)
2. come fascicolo singolo
3. come singoli articoli (acquistando un download credit)

Più tempestività, più comodità.

Per saperne di più: www.francoangeli.it

---